In cases where other personal data is processed, such as the data concerning health status, such data is processed in the scope necessary for the risk assessment in concluding an insurance policy and for determining the extent of the obligation to provide insurance indemnity.

	the purposes of preventing and detecting money laundering and terrorist financing.
Prevention and detection of anti-social activity (fraud assessment).	The legal basis for processing of your personal data is Article 6(1)(c) and (f) of the GDPR Regulation. We carry out this processing in the interest of preventing and detecting any criminal and other undesirable antisocial activities. This means that your consent is not required for processing of your personal data.
Exercising our claims and defending our rights	The legal basis for the processing of your personal data is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR Regulation, in which we perform processing in the interest of proving, exercising and defending our legal claims. This means that your consent is not required for processing of your personal data.
Recording phone calls at our customer call centre	The legal basis for the processing of your personal data is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR Regulation in order that we can improve the quality of the service we provide you and that we can prove and defend our legal claims. This means that your consent is not required for processing of your personal data.
Marketing offers – offer of products, including profiling (targeted marketing offer), sending newsletters, competitions	The legal basis for the processing of your personal data is your consent (Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR Regulation). You can withdraw your granted consent at any time, whereupon any appeal shall not have retrospective effects.
Direct marketing – informing our existing clients about news concerning their insurance policy and our products and services that they have or which are related to such products or services.	The legal basis for the processing of your personal data is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR Regulation (legitimate interest); we perform such processing in the interest of improving the quality and individualization of the services we offer you. You have the right to object to such processing at any time.
Satisfaction survey	The legal basis for the processing of your personal data is our legitimate interest (Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR Regulation) in order that we can evaluate the quality of services provided with the aim of improving them and identifying our clients' needs. You have the right to object to such processing at any time.
Ensuring the security and functionality of web services Evaluating website visitor behaviour and personalising website content (especially cookies, IP addresses). In the case that we engage you in a satisfaction survey, we will process the data collected in the framework of the survey for a period of three months.

8. Your rights as a data subject

If we process personal data about you, you have the following rights toward us:

- 8.1. The right to receive a confirmation on whether we process your personal data and if so, you have the right of access to this personal data together with the information stated in this guidance.
- 8.2. The right that we rectify your incorrect personal data and that we supplement any incomplete personal data on you.
- 8.3. The right to erasure of your personal data, if the data is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was collected or otherwise processed.
- 8.4. The right to restrict processing of your personal data, if:
  - you contest the accuracy of your personal data, during the period of verifying such data;
  - the processing is unlawful and you object to the erasure of your personal data, and instead you request a restriction of its use;
  - we do not need your personal data for the purposes of processing, but you need them for proving, enforcing or defending claims.
- 8.5. The right to obtain the personal data relating to you and that you have provided to us, and also the right to transfer this data to another controller.
- 8.6. The right to object to the processing of your personal data by us.
- 8.7. The right to file a complaint with the Office for Personal Data Protection, if you believe that the processing of your personal data from our side is in contravention of legal regulations for personal data protection.
- 8.8. The right to file an objection with us and not to be subject to our decision which could produce legal effects for you and a significant impact, if such decision is issued solely on the basis of automated processing of personal data. You have the right to request us to review a decision issued by way of a method other than automated processing, whereupon we are obliged to comply with such request so that our staff will have a decisive role in reviewing the decision. We shall inform you on the manner of reviewing and result of the finding within 30 days of receiving your request.
- 8.9. The right to request proof of identity of the person responsible for collecting personal data.
- 8.10. If your personal data was not collected from you, you have the right to obtain information as to from what source your personal data originate, or information as to whether the data came from publicly accessible sources.

If you do not have full legal capacity, your rights may be exercised by your legal representative. If the data subject is not alive, his/her rights that he/she had under personal data protection law may be exercised by a close person.

You can exercise your rights in one of the following ways:

- a) in writing to the address of our registered office;
- b) at the e-mail address dataprotection@union.sk;
- c) in person verbally in minuted notes, from which it must be clear who exercised the right, what you are claiming and when and who drew up the minutes, his/her signature and your signature; you will receive a copy of the minuted notes;
- d) at the processor, whereupon the processor will then forward your request or the minuted notes to us for handling.

9. Our company uses automated tools for processing personal data for the purpose of evaluating certain personal aspects of data subjects (profiling). Profiling means any form of automated processing of personal data consisting in the use of this personal data for evaluating certain personal aspects concerning a natural person, primarily analysing or predicting aspects of the data subject relating to his/her property, health, personal preferences, interests, reliability, behaviour, location or movement. The personal data of a data subject is thus processed primarily for the purposes of analysing the insurance risk or identifying potential insurance fraud, or for the purposes of protecting against money laundering and terrorist financing. In the case of a decision based solely on automated processing of personal data, including profiling, you have the rights referred to in point 8.8 of this document.

9. Personal data will not be published.

11. Transfer of personal data

Our company presumes that your personal data will be transferred to the above-mentioned recipients of personal data to within the European Union countries, countries that are signatories to the European Economic Area agreement and to Switzerland (to the entities referred to in point 6 of this information). We shall perform transfer of your personal data to third countries only if the European Commission has decided that these countries guarantee an adequate level of protection, or in the case where no such decision exists, then only if the data controller or data processor has provided adequate guarantees and at the same time if enforceable rights and effective legal remedies are available to you.
